

Telemarketers have infringed upon our privacy far too long. What's worse, when we politely decline their offer, many of them become rude and belligerent. I don't want to have to constantly have my privacy interrupted by rude, argumentative individuals. I have a right to be protected from this infringement.